

CDL Prep Training Coming to RTEC May 1, 2009

If you're interested in obtaining your CDL, you'll be interested in the CDL Preparatory Training that Mitchell Technical Institute will be offering at RTEC on May 1 & 2, 2009.

The 12-hour prep course, which will begin that Friday evening and conclude after a full day of instruction on that Saturday, is designed for individuals who need a course to help prepare them for the CDL exam. It can also benefit those who need to obtain their learner's permit in order to enroll in a professional truck driving course.

During the CDL Prep Training, students will:

- Cover traffic violations and CDL disqualifications
- Review the CDL manual covering sections on general information, vehicle inspection, cargo transport, air brakes, combination vehicles and hazardous materials
- Take a pre-test on manuals and pre-trip inspection
- Complete pre-trip classroom portion of instruction
- Cover pre-trip practical training with the MTI truck/trailer
- Cover third party testing preparation with the MTI truck/trailer

The course will be taught by Tony Mathers, an 8-year MTI instructor who has driven professionally for more than a decade. Cost of the course is $180.
